Fund Objective

The Newscap Global Multi-Asset Adventurous Fund is a higher risk portfolio which aims to provide capital growth where an investor is prepared to accept a greater level of risk for the potential of higher returns. Investment exposure will typically include a mix of the following asset classes: cash, near cash, fixed income instruments, UK equities, international equities, property and commodities. Given its growth focused nature, the fund will typically have a significant bias towards global equities including a greater exposure to mid and small cap equities and emerging market equities than would be expected in a lower risk Fund. The fund holds both collective investment instruments and individual direct investments in equities and bonds.

Manager's Commentary

Over the course of the month, global equity markets retrenched sharply with the MSCI World equity index down 7.4% driven by continued concerns over global trade wars, Brexit and the Italian budget. Against this backdrop the Newscap Global Multi-Asset Adventurous Fund fell 6.38%.

Macro commentary

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) opened the month with a downgrade to world economic growth by 0.2% to 3.7% (2018), citing Brexit and global trade wars.

In the UK, the British Chamber of Commerce noted in its latest survey that firms in the service sector (76% of GDP) attempting to hire new staff has fallen to its lowest level in 25 years. Uncertainty over Brexit has also seen the number of manufacturing firms reporting a rise in orders and exports falling to its lowest level in 2 years. Manufacturing data also disappointed coming in at -0.2% MoM in August against a consensus of +0.1%. On a slightly more positive note, the economy grew by 0.7% in the 3 months to August according to the Office for National Statistics (ONS), albeit flat in August against estimates of +0.1%. Whilst a recovery in construction aided the 3-month figure, following the early year cold spot, the service sector (80% of the economy) showed a flat performance.

On a more positive note, the October Budget statement heralded an end to austerity with planned increases in the higher tax threshold and a raising of the tax-free allowance being brought forward by a year to April 2019. This was accompanied by a raising of the growth forecast to 1.6% in 2019 from a previous forecast of 1.3%. However, it was Brexit that continued to dominate the headlines as negotiations of the way forward for the Irish border continued to falter.

Over in Europe, the other main news centred around the Italian budget proposals with Italy continuing to shoot for a budget deficit of 2.4% next year much against the EU's wishes. Meanwhile, EU Growth forecasts were revised down by the IMF by 0.2% to 2.0% for this year. 2019 remains unchanged. Subsequently, EU growth for Q3 was confirmed at 0.2%, accompanied by a reduction in the EC economic sentiment index which fell to 109.8 in October from 110.9 in September.

The US economy grew by 3.5% in Q3 in line with expectations albeit below the 4.2% seen in Q2. This was expected as the benefits of the 2017 tax cuts start to ebb on a relative basis. Nonetheless, this is the 6th consecutive quarter now that the US has seen growth above 2%. Furthermore, the personal consumption expenditure price index pared back to 1.6% from 2.0% in the prior quarter; this is a key index that is monitored by the Fed when making its rate hike decisions and may help to reduce fears of an overheating economy.

As mentioned above, the IMF expects the ongoing trade wars between the US and China to impact global growth this year and next, with the US also facing the fallout of this year's tax windfalls. In an attempt to offset some of the damage from the US imposed tariffs, China cut its Reserve Requirement Ratio (RRR) by 1%, which will in turn inject some $109bn in to the banking system. This marks the 4th cut to the RRR this year. China insists it remains open to a constructive solution including reforms around intellectual property rights and significantly opening up its financial services sector. China growth fell back to 6.5% in Q3 from 6.7% in the prior quarter. Nonetheless, the Central Bank maintains that fundamentals are solid despite the ongoing trade war.

Against this generally troublesome backdrop, however, the IMF raised its forecasts for Japan growth by 0.1% to 1.1% due to an uptick in growth and domestic demand in Q2. Furthermore, the mood of Japanese manufacturers remains relatively undamaged by the escalating global trade war as evidenced by the Tanken sentiment index which rose slightly in October from September. Retail sales also continued to rise in September albeit at a slower pace versus the prior month. The softer growth will likely add to wider concerns about the Japanese central bank's ability to hit its elusive annual inflation target of 2 percent.

Market and Fund Commentary

Global equity markets retreated in October with the MSCI World Index down 7.4% in local currency and with US large tech being hit particularly hard. Commodities, as a basket were also down some 3% in this risk off environment. Global government bonds picked up some of the slack ahead modestly on the month with UK Index linked Gilts performing particularly well. Corporate debt was broadly flat with investment grade slightly higher and high yield slightly lower.

During the month, the best performing IA (Investment Association) sectors were Index Linked Gilts, UK Gilts and Sterling Corporate Bonds. By way of contrast, the worst performing IA sectors were China, UK Smaller Companies and Asia exc Japan.

Against this backdrop, and in terms portfolio performance, the greatest contributions were derived from Smithson Investment Trust Fund, Man GLG UK Income Fund and Pennpetro Security. Meanwhile, the main detractors to performance were LF Miton European Opportunities Fund, Old mutual UK Smaller Companies Fund and Polar Capital North American Fund.

Over the month we added a number of new positions including the newly launched Smithson Investment Trust which we bought in to at the Initial Public Offering (IPO), Imperial Brands and Micro Focus. Focusing on the Smithson Trust, the fund which invests in the global small and mid-cap equity space was oversubscribed some 4 x the initial target. It is arguable that the recent volatility of the last month will have presented the fund managers with some more advantageous entry points in to their chosen investments. Furthermore, with small and mid-cap equity research coverage under evermore pressure from regulations, the high calibre investment team at Fundsmith stands well placed to take advantage of reduced market information in this space. Since its IPO in mid-October, the fund is already up some 7.5%.

In summary, we are currently Overweight UK equities, Neutral European, US, Japanese and Asian equities and Underweight Emerging Market equities versus our strategic benchmarks. On the fixed income side, we remain Underweight with a focus on shorter duration bonds.
